Vocabulary for "Making Tea"

How do you take your tii (tea) or kʷaapii (coffee)? Are there any other hot drinks that you enjoy? Having a hot drink can be a delicious part of our day, and it can taste even better when we get to share it with someone we care about!

What kinds of nuučaañuł words can we learn when making tii or kʷaapii to share with a friend? Let's practice our vocabulary for tiičiił with these language activities. Visit Ucluelet dialect domain sets (<https://bit.ly/3qgKrFK>), FirstVoices (<https://bit.ly/35L7UWj>), or ask a fluent language speaker from your community to help you.

Activity #1: Illustrated Instructions

Can you help me follow these guidelines to make the perfect cup of tii?

Draw a picture under each nuučaañuł statement to help me translate the two options for boiling water and the steps to making tii.

Option A: ʔinkʷayaʔi tuup.	Option B: ʔinkʷayaʔi łuməhsipyakʔi	muχsaapi čaʔak.
čiʔalaʔaʔi tiičuuʔi niisaak.	kicšiʔi tii.	čiqsiʔi tii.

Activity #2: How Do You Take Your Tea?

ŝuuk^waaqč̌inaphak?aała tii (Do you put sugar in your tea?).

Everyone has their own personal taste for how they like to enjoy their tii or k^waapii. Can you help me make the right drinks for my guests?

Each of my friends below has asked for a drink using pictures or English words. Let's serve them by rewriting each of their preferences in nuučaañuł.

Activity #3: An Invitation to Tea

It's time to throw our own tea party! Let's write an invitation to describe the event and ask our friends to join us.

Write your invitation on the next page using as much nuučaañuł vocabulary as you can.

You can use point-form or full sentences.

You can use Ucluelet dialect domain sets (<https://bit.ly/3qhKrFK>), FirstVoices (<https://bit.ly/35L7UWj>) or ask a fluent language speaker from your community to help you find the right nuučaañuł words.

Your invitation must include:

- A question to ask your guests if they would like to attend (e.g., tiᓃᓂᓐᓂᓐᓂ—Do you want some tea?)
- A location for the event (e.g., tuuk^wasuwas—yard)
- 3 food items that you will be serving
- 3 drinks (or types of tea) that you will be serving
- 3 items that your guests should bring

You can also decorate your invitation with art supplies. How can you help your guests get excited about your tea party?
