"Going for a Drive" Vocabulary

Whether we're drivers or passengers, going for a ride in the car can take us on all sorts of adventures! Even a drive to the store can turn into a fun trip or a chance to see something new.

What kinds of nuučaańuł words can we learn while going for a drive? Let's practice our vocabulary for łiiħpanač with these language activities. Visit Ucluelet dialect domain sets (<https://bit.ly/3qhKrFK>), FirstVoices (<https://bit.ly/35L7UWj>), or ask a fluent language speaker from your community to help you.

Activity #1: ńaši?i yaa—Look at that!

ńačwaas?i quuquuxsim—look out the window. We're driving past places, animals, and plants that you may have learned in nuučaańuł!

Draw a picture under each nuučaańuł statement that shows what I'm pointing at.

łu?uł	čims	?uucmapt
makuł	Ƨaanus	miƧaat, hisit

Activity #2: ʔucaḥtaḱi ʔaḥkuu—Drive this way

I get lost so easily when I'm driving around! Can you give me directions to help me get to where I want to go?

Each of the following boxes has a starting point and a destination around Toquaht. Use point-form to write down the directions in nuučaañuł that can help me arrive at my destination!

Try including information about directions to turn, distance to drive, and landmarks to look out for. You can use Google Maps if you need help planning the route.

Activity #3: Car Radio DJ

ḡink<sup>w</sup>ayápi nuukúuu—turn on the radio! We need a soundtrack for our road trip. Can you choose the right music for the drive?

In the space below, write the words in nuučaaḡuḡ for a song (or poem) about driving or travelling. You can use the back of this sheet if you need more space.

You can:

- transcribe a nuučaaḡuḡ song
- translate an English song into nuučaaḡuḡ
- make up your own song in nuučaaḡuḡ

ḡasaatuksápi—make it louder!
